

Church of Scotland Evangelical Network Why, Who, What, Where?

Why?

Although recent crises have brought a great strain to the Church it has also brought many within the evangelical constituency of the Church of Scotland together as never before. This has led to an opportunity to re-establish an orthodox and biblical foundation within the Church of Scotland. As a result, there is now a growing network of evangelicals within the Church of Scotland seeking to further these aims and objectives.

Who?

It is open to members and adherents of the Church of Scotland.

The leadership of COSEN is a small core group who will facilitate the wider group with information through social media, the COSEN website, email and personal contact.

What?

We affirm the doctrines and confessional standard of our Church and as a network of individuals we are committed to a shared interest in:

- a. Renewing the Church through the work of the Holy Spirit, prayer and bible teaching, affirming our confessional stance, encouragement of one another, sharing of information through social networking, conferences and other gatherings.
- b. Reforming the Church and her structures through active engagement.
- c. Reaching out to the nation with the Good News of Jesus Christ in creative ways and supporting one another as we do so and praying and working within the structures of the Church to see more time and resources concentrated on mission and discipleship.

Where?

Across Scotland this fluid group of people are primarily connected through social media and other expressions of networking. Twice yearly, Vision days will be held in different parts of the country to bring people together for worship, encouragement and prayer.
